

The buildings' geometry is subdivided into four units, opening up to the surroundings and making it an urban geometry

The urban geometry of the Biomedicum creates an internal community, and allows free cooperation between the science units and the surrounding campus